Know Thyself.

Against society in its best and truest sense we have nothing to say, but a class that sets itself up, even in a church, and shows a readiness to "out of sight," through prejudice, or some unjust cause is indeed in a deplorable state of feeling, and if it prospers, it is not because of any merit of its own.

The word society, as understood by many, is often a class not of the best, but those who try to make the biggest pretensions or boast of the largest bank account without measuring the mind, which is, and ever will be the only true standard of the person.

We find ourselves in a company. How easily we note among them, the one with such gentle courtesy and bearing. It would not be hard for one to appeal to in any trouble, one we could trust.

Alas, there are too few of such. Society is made up, too often, of a selfish class seeking the interests of its own and barring out those who might and should be recognized. Of all things that people are prone to overlook, it is a person's unwillingness to enter the list of idle gossiping, politely styled social chat.

If one holds himself above evil prating and uses all people according to their just deserts, and will not lose his own individuality in the crowd, he will find that his own intuition forbids, he fails to be interesting, and is perhaps looked on as a kind of crank

Among an intelligent, well-educated, well-meaning, and if you will, religious class, there is no distinction.

Or better, where one may possess a certain quality in the ascendancy, so another may make up in some other good quality or qualities.

Thus equalizing the whole, and so more tolerance, more gentleness, more kindness, and true hospitality, is what this sad world most needs.

"So many thoughts, so many are—"

"So many ways that wind and wind,"

"What goes the art of being kind,"

"Is all this and world needs."

sum of $25,000 will be given to any charitable institution if it can be shown otherwise. Half a century ago, when the late Father John O'Brien of Lowell, Mass., recommended to his parishioners and friends the prescription that had restored him to health and strength, the people named it Father John's Medicine. Its power to make strength and build up the body explains why it cures Colds and all Throat and Lung troubles.

HARRISON.

Lakeside Grange.

Lakeside grange held an all-day meeting on Saturday last. Bear Mountain and Highland granges were visiting guests to the number of over one hundred, with the home grange, taking the seating capacity of the big hall. The forenoon program was divided between Lakeside and Bear Mountain, and consisted of choral music by B. M. grange choir, a piano duet by Jennie and Carrie Hamlin, readings by Mrs. Frank Shaw and Mrs. Elbridge Flint, Waterford, and Leah Griffith of North Bridgton. Worthy Master Chadbourne, presiding, announced the prospective organization of a Dairy Testing Association by the dairy farmers of Bridgton and Harrison, with aggregate milk source of 300 cows. A sumptuous banquet was served to visiting guests during the noon hour, who, with the home grange in attendance, completely filled the seats of the banquet hall.

The afternoon program was opened by a brief discussion on the subject of Forestry and postponed from March 30. The speakers were Joseph and George Pitts, James Thomas, Mark Perry and Quincy Chester, all lumbermen of extensive experience, whose remarks were of much interest to all present. It was declared as a general fact, that a pine tree ten years old, would double its growth and value as an asset to the farm in ten years. Hemlock grows nearly as fast as pine, and spruce more slowly. A forest of pine would in most cases, be sufficiently mature and fit to cut and manufacture into lumber in from fifty to seventy years. Mr. Perry of Sweden, who has had an experience in the lumber trade on the Saco river of 26 years, gave some valuable facts and suggestions regarding the system of contracts with loggers and restrictions as to cutting timber, bearing on the matter of conserving the valuable portions of the timber. He said some loggers were apt to leave valuable portions of the top sections of trees to rot in the woods, which was not conducive to economy in the handling of our forest products.

The main part of the program was assigned to Highland grange, which distinguished itself by the presentation of two performances of a dramatic and spectacular nature. The first, entitled "The Calendar Months," was composed on the idea of the months of the year and the changing seasons. Worthy Master Sanborn and the other officers of his grange were ushered to the room, and conducted to their stations by Bro. Charles Burnell and four young ladies. The tables of the officers were draped and decorated handsomely with roses and other flowers and autumn leaves, so that, with the white robes of January, (Master Sanborn) evoked by a simulated effect of snow in the room, and the staid figure of April, who was rain coated and umbrella shielded for "April showers," the tasteful costumes and regalia of other representatives of the months, a very consistently striking scheme of color decoration was secured. The L. A. S., personating December, was conspicuous by proximity to a handsome Christmas tree in full bloom, placed right in front of her. The success of Highland grange in its effort to give so good an entertainment, was due to the ingenuity of its gifted members.

"Wanted, A Wife," an amusing pantomime, was presented by W. M. Sanborn, representing a lone bachelor, seated in a squalid apartment, attempting to mend a very ragged sock, and four young ladies who applied in succession for the position announced by a placard conspicuously posted to which the attention of each was directed on her entrance to the room. But their efforts to demonstrate their qualifications to "fill the bill" designed in muscular exercises with the washboard, the flatiron and the broom, were severely futile and were quickly rejected until the last who appealed for the position, a very gentle and deft manipulation of the domestic implements won the approbation of the veil, however, she was disclosed as a "lady of color," and the poor, expectant bachelor, who a fit, and collapsed by a backward flop to the floor. The afternoon exercises were rendered additionally enjoyable by the fine piano duet of Gladys Kimball and Gladys Irgalis, the sweet soprano song of Gladys Irgalis, and the graceful recitation of "The Child and the Star," by Gladys Kimball.

At the conclusion of the exercises, after an exchange of thanks and congratulations, Brother Emery in behalf of Grange announced that the members of Lakeside, Bear Mountain, Sweden and South Bridgton Granges were cordially invited to visit Highland Grange on Saturday, April 10, and assist in the celebration of the 10th anniversary. It is to be an all-day festival of fraternal sentiment, music and flow of soul, with an abundant supply of the delights of the banquet table, for which the ladies of Highland Grange are distinguished as caterers.

Spring Clothing

Our enthusiasm for the new Spring Suits and Top Coats which we are now showing is based on the results our customers get from them. It's worth a great deal to us to know that when we sell a suit or a top coat we're giving our customers big values for his money; and that he's going to get the value out of it. Good fabric counts in the wear; so does good tailoring; and the correct style is a powerful factor in your satisfaction. How Much Does It Cost?

Auburn, Maine, April 1, 1909.
To the Editor of Advertiser:—I have before me a copy of the Norway Town Report for the past year and the figures therein in certain departments tell a very interesting story.
Every tax payer should make it a point to see where his money is going, and what for. Now briefly by comparison, I wish to call attention to the following figures and will take the city of Auburn with a population of about 14,000 to Norway's 4,000.
You expended for poor on farm, four persons, about $1,300. The city of Auburn for 18 inmates on farm, $1,036.
For poor off farm (a queer place for a pauper to be) $1,909 in Norway; the city of Auburn, $1418.
You paid a physician for doctoring your four paupers, $104.16. The city of Auburn paid $100 for 18 and all other deserving poor in the city.
To salaries: Your first selectman put in the modest bill of $467 and the other two $359. Total $826 or about double the amount paid the mayor of Auburn, $450. The mayor conducts the city's business by being in his office one hour daily and by help of the city government who serve without pay.
Norway has so much business that your first officer put in last year a grand total of 1679 hours, five times that of mayor of Auburn. What do the others do with their time?
Your tax rate never will grow less under such a system and every voter in town, every property holder should register against such a showing, when in a few years' time thousands of dollars might be saved and diverted into right channels.
CHAS. S. BARTLETT.

NORWAY AND VICINITY.

The First Catch of the Season.
Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Hobbs have just returned from a visit to their daughter's, Mrs. Walter Bachelder's at North Sebago. Mr. Hobbs' visit was made pleasant by a fine catch, the first of the season, the law on salmon coming off April 1st. Early Thursday morning Mr. Hobbs and Walter Bachelder decided to try their luck, casting at the mouth of Bachelder Brook. They succeeded in landing a fine salmon weighing nine pounds and six ounces. This is Mr. Hobbs' first visit to Sandy Beach. He was much pleased with the lake and its fishing and means to try his luck again when the ice has left the lake.

Dr. Parmenter's Antique Glasses.
Where did you secure this array of old fashioned "eye gear?" asked the inquisitive seer. "Well," replied the doctor, "I have been in the optical business twenty years, traveling in almost every state in the union, thus had a grand opportunity to collect, while roaming the country professionally. The exhibit represents considerable money, and hours of hard work securing historical data of accurate details. Why say, the collection dates back from 250 to 280 years or so.
"For example, that large pair with round steel riding bows are hand made, being forged by a blacksmith more than 250 years ago. There is enough steel in that big frame to make more than a dozen modern ones. How people could manage such ungainly iron masks is a mystery to me. This pair of German silver sliding bows with square lenses, is of comparatively recent date, yet I treasure them for their association. They belonged to my father, who used them more than 60 years."

Nathan Shapera has gone to New York on a visit. He went from here Friday.

Oscar F. Pitts has sold his blacksmith business to Arthur Miller and the Bridge street blacksmith shop is open for business.

We saw Fred Cummings going down street with a small owl in his hand. It was a pretty little fellow and had broken its neck flying into the mill.

Dana Harlow started for Boston, Monday, from there he contemplates taking a trip to Chicago, where he formerly worked; from there he will go to Montana to visit with relatives.

Poster L. Swift has resigned his position with the American Locomotive Co., to accept an appointment as purchasing agent and asst. superintendent, with the Automatic Refrigerating Co., of Hartford Conn.

Mrs. Allen's Millinery Opening

Mrs. G. A. Allen invited the ladies to inspect the new spring millinery Friday and Saturday, and they were more than willing to go and catch a first look of the "headgear." (this is a man's word) for the coming season.
Carrying out the fruit notion in millinery, which she possesses Paris now, the hats themselves have a look of the fancy fruit baskets such as are used for holding bon voyage grapes, hot-house pears and friendly lemon for the sea-going traveler. Of course the fruit-basket hats are worn inverted and stripped of their handle, or handles simulated by straps or streamers of ribbon passing under the crown. The new straws are in coarse basket weaves, too, and altogether some of the smart hats are not unlike big peach baskets turned upside down and decorated with fruit.
The flower toques are a favorite. The toques are not oblong but are in the shape of huge bowls, made of light wire and covered with silk illusion, and to this light tulle are sewed flowers and foliage in the new soft millinery colorings.
By a turban is meant anything from a small hat to a huge one.
The turban hugs the hair and the picture hat has a sweeping brim; that's the difference. Turbans sometimes have quite decided brims, but these slope sharply downward, shading the eyes and almost obliterating the coiffure, or they roll sharply back, making a little curl outside the high crown. These new turbans are most simply trimmed with the wide band of bow of ribbon, or by a big ornament and towering aigrette at the front. With the revival of the modes of the early middle ages, comes the armor helmet or casque turban.
The fruit hat is a fad. The cherry and berry hats are really very charming, and fruity trimmings have the advantage of not being as perishable as the more easily faded flowers.
The biggest certainly is all in the crown. In fact some of the new hats seem to be all crown, a mere apology of brim being set at the lower edge of the huge crown to form a support for the trimmings. As a matter of fact the brims of some of these hats are not greatly narrower than those of the hats of yore, as will be proved if the hat is turned upside down, but the head size is much larger, cutting further out into the brim and the huge crown, added separately, sets out over the brim to within an inch or so of the edge, giving the effect of a small hat.

The boy in the back is a feature. Some of the smartest high-crowned models have no further trimming than that band and bow of wide ribbon or velvet, except for a rose or catenach of clusters of small flowers at one side of the front. These bows at the back, be it understood, do not droop over the hair, but are rather stiff and conventional with crisp loops standing out at the sides.
Sometimes the band which encircles the crown is of very wide ribbon stirred to a stiff foundation of crinoline, and along the upper and lower edges of the ribbon is an edge of tiny flowers, like forget-me-nots or arbutus blossoms. The wide ribbon is tied simply in the regulation bow across the back of the crown.
Mrs. Allen has 125 trimmed hats. The head trimmer is Estelle McKillop, who was with her last year, Vivian Ragner, Mrs. Wallace Allen, Rebecca Bennett and Helen King of Gorham, N. H.

The window shows the popular mustard shades. The shades much admired this season are mustard, a sort of a brownish yellow; blue, about half inch wide, catenach, pretty near a crushed strawberry; taupe, a grey; wisteria, something like a sage; cedar brown, a yellowish straw color; asbetic green and the wood shades.
Flowers abound especially roses in all sizes and many shades and colors, also pampas grass. There are daisies and lilies. Small flowers are made up into buckles, bands, crowns and entire hats.
The hats have such commonplace names as the bee hive, flower pot, basket and bucket. The difference between a basket and a flower pot is that the basket has a square crown and the flower pot a rounded one. One flower pot was made of bluet spotted lace, trimmed with pink plumes, bristles of navy ribbon and a cabochon. A basket was made of violets and foliage with a green feather flower. A basket had the crown of white silk violets, blue straw rim and white plume.
The real crows are here again, and are favorites. Many of them have streamers or ties. A little white flower hat was made of little white roses and green foliage with cravat bows. The Billie Burke turban is simply a big crown. This is very good in jet. By the way jet is in style, jet hats, jet buckles, jet ornaments, jet anything.
Bonnetts are not made with ties but the bows falling low in the back. Some bonnetts are so large they are almost hats.
The misses' hats are like their wearers, dainty and pretty. One a cedar brown straw, was trimmed with green ribbon and a profusion of green, white and blue bows. Another, a mushroom straw hat had a velvet band in a geranium shade around the rim and geranium flowers in many shades.
The babies have gained the fashion makers' attention and they have the cutest little infants' bonnetts in Tuscan straw.

The Verander Club are to give a ball at the Norway Opera House in the near future.
Get ready for the boating season. It will soon be here. Then no time will be lost out of the boating season.
Friday evening, Mrs. J. F. Swain gave a "Good Luck" party to her Sunday school class. It is needless to say that there are no dull moments when these jolly girls are together.
Mrs. R. L. Powers has her millinery opening next Friday and Saturday. Mrs. V. W. Hills has charge of affairs, till Mrs. Powers recovers from her severe illness. She is reported to be gaining. Powers health is improving.

WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

During Change of Life, says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter." Mrs. CHAS. BARCLAY, R. F. D. Graniteville, Vt.
No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints, such as inflammation, ulceration, local weaknesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

Be Patient With the Boy.

The boy has some rights! They are too often overlooked. Older sisters frequently resent them. Even mothers sometimes fail to recognize them.
The growing boy has scant courtesy shown him at home.
What if his tracks are seen occasionally on the clean floor?
What if he does leave the doors open when they should be shut?
What if he does make noise enough to wake the dead?
It must be remembered that these are not crimes or shortcomings.
Time and patience can remedy these and many other thoughtless acts.
Time, patience and judicious encouragement will prove more effective than fault-finding.
Is there any member of the family who hears more complaints, of his methods than the boy's?
Yet he really does many little helpful things that we would miss if they were omitted.
He has a right to appreciation and thanks when his small daily chores are well done.
Is it right to give the boy the attic room and his sister a big, sunny, second floor room?
Is it right to think that any sort of cast-iron furniture will do for the destructive boy?
He might not be so thoughtless and destructive if he possessed a beautiful and convenient room to care for.
An appreciation of the beautiful, artistic and orderly is mostly a matter of education and a boy has a right to it.
A boy has a right to all the home privileges accorded his sisters and to be exempt from the accusation that he is at the bottom of all the mischief afloat.

BUCKFIELD.

Mrs. Caleb D. Dorr.

Mrs. Caleb D. Dorr, a native of this town, died at her home in Minneapolis, Minn., on Monday, March 22. She was a pioneer of early St. Anthony (now Minneapolis), and had she lived till May 11, would have completed a residence there, of 60 years. Before her marriage she was Celestia A. Ricker, and was born April 20, 1828.

She and Mr. Dorr were married on March 4, 1849, at Great Works. Mr. Dorr first went to St. Anthony in 1847, and in 1848 he purchased two lots on which he built his home. After his marriage he returned with his wife to St. Anthony, and from that time till Mrs. Dorr's death they resided there. They made their trip from Maine to Minnesota partly by rail, partly by stage-coach, and partly by a Mississippi river steamer to St. Louis. Their journey covered 32 days, they having started on April 9 and arriving at St. Anthony on May 11. Minnesota was then a territory, and 16 days after their arrival at St. Anthony, the territorial governor (Alexander Ramsey) and other officials arrived and completed the organization of the territorial government of Minnesota.

In 1850, ten years after Mr. and Mrs. Dorr had taken up their residence at St. Anthony, only a few families had yet settled there, but all of them celebrated the 4th of July in true eastern fashion. A tall flagstaff was raised, and a man volunteered to go to St. Paul to get a flag but when he got there he found that he could procure no flag. He then went to Fort Snelling, but was equally unsuccessful there in procuring a flag, so when he returned to St. Anthony, the women of that place purchased a cambric of the proper colors and made a flag, and the celebration came off accordingly to schedule.

Mrs. Dorr's death followed a brief illness brought about, it is thought, by anxiety and over exertion in caring for her husband, who met with a slight mishap a few days before. He fell upon an icy sidewalk, and by reason of his advanced age, was somewhat dazed when he reached the Hotel Richmond, where the couple resided.

Mrs. Dorr became unduly alarmed over his condition, and insisted upon taking care of him. Her anxiety and over exertion brought about a nervous breakdown, and for four days previous to her decease, she was in a deep stupor, death ensuing before she regained consciousness.

She never had any children, and because her husband was the only close relation she leaves is a sister, Mrs. A. G. Howard of Clarkson, Wash.

Mr. Dorr, who is now president of the Mississippi & Rum River Boom Co., was one of the first lumbermen in Minnesota, and for many years he was the foundation of the big industries of that state.

Causes Debility.

Here Are Facts Backed Up by a Strong Guarantee.

Debility is caused by catarrh. In our opinion, a person free from Catarrh was never troubled with Debility. Debility can never be cured by medicine not designed to cure Catarrh, and thus cure Debility. In every case where we fail to effect a cure, we will not charge a cent for the medicine employed during the trial. Now, surely one should hesitate to believe us or to put our claim to a practical test under such conditions. We take all the risk; no one else can lose anything by the transaction.

NORTH FRYEBURG.

The Valley Farm. The Drama club played the drama entitled "Valley Farm," at Red Men's hall at Fryeburg, Wednesday evening, March 31st.

Percy Jones appeared as Harold Rutledge, a handsome, young man of fashion, good natured, not afraid but easily influenced.

Perry Deane, an impulsive young farmer, was represented by James Flint. This part full of feeling and was given in a very natural manner.

In the person of Arthur Remis, showed a benevolent disposition throughout the play, and a desire to make right all wrongs.

Charles Wiswell, as Silas Halcomb, showed a typical farmer, full of dry humor, and with a smiling countenance. This part was given in an excellent manner and his costumes were all that could be desired.

Azariah Kopp, an eccentric character, was played with an abstracted manner, was given to perfection by Selden Pichman. His great desire to "pop the question," and his evident awe of "Alvira," was very amusing.

The proposal was written and delivered with becoming ceremony, during the last tableau.

Edward Jones, as Jennings, the butler, was very dignified, even while disposing of the country guests. His costume, even to the shirt, was all that could be desired.

Edie Flint, as Hetty Holcomb, a bright young country girl, appeared at first pappy and care free. In Act 2, upon the arrival of her father and aunt she was her old natural self.

In Act 3, trouble had made her a matured woman, and upon her return at the farm she was subdued and sorrowful. The ending, however, repaired all wrongs as of course every climax does.

The last meeting, held two weeks ago, was Women's day, in which the entire business and entertainment was conducted by the women. Next Saturday, which will be the last regular meeting of the old hall, will be Wednesday. E. E. Field and A. J. Abbott are the committee of arrangements. They are planning to give one more supper in the old hall, some time the middle of April, which will consist of baked beans, hot rolls, maple syrup and cakes. The date of the supper will be given next week.
